Girls of Fifteen Save Men From Drowning

DOROTHY BECKER - ALICE MILLER

Dorothy Becker and Alice Miller, both aged fifteen, of Klamath Falls, N. J., saved two young men from drowning after a storm struck during their swim. Miss Becker was dragged beneath the water by the current. She swam to them in New Bay when she saw they were exhausted, and they held to her. She fought them off and was being struck overboard when Miss Miller went to her aid. The two dragged the men ashore and revived them.

Eighty-Five Millions in Federal Aid for Rural Community Routes

The sum of $85,000,000 in Federal funds is made available for the construction of rural roads by the passage of the Federal Road Bill which became law on July 11, 1916. Of this sum $25,000,000 is to be expended for the construction of rural roads under cooperative arrangements with the highway departments of the various States, and $60,000,000 is to be expended for roads and trails within or partly within the National Forests. The Federal Government's share in road work in cooperation with the States is to be paid out of the estimated road fund of $100,000,000. Federal aid may be expended for the construction of any rural post road, including all streets or roads in towns having a population of 10,000 or more, except the portions of such streets or roads on which the houses are, on an average, more than one foot apart.

This million dollars is made available for expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and thereafter the appropriation is increased at the rate of one million a year until 1922, when the sum provided is twenty-five millions, making a total of seventy-five millions. In addition an appropriation of one million dollars a year is to be made for the construction of roads and trails in the National Forests.

The Federal road bill is the first of a series of bills which are to be introduced in the House by the Department of Agriculture and the Highway Department. Apportionment of Funds Among States

The Act provides that after making necessary deductions for administrative expenses, not to exceed 5 percent of the appropriation for any fiscal year, the Secretary of Agriculture shall apportion the remainder of each year's appropriation in the following manner:

First—In the ratio which the area of each State bears to the total area of all the States.

Second—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Third—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Fourth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Fifth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Sixth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Seventh—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Eighth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Ninth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

Tenth—In the ratio which the population of each State bears to the total population of all the States.

AGENT BENTON GIVES PRUNING DIRECTIONS

The following interesting matter relative to tree pruning has been received from Harmon Benton agricultural agent for Randall, Armstrong, Bluff and Potter counties.

Since the City Commission has offered prizes for the cleanest pruning, a number of inquiries have been received regarding points Nos. 6 and 7 of the above card. For the information of those who are too timid to ask questions I desire to state regarding No. 6, that the most efficient horticulturist in America said that the best time to prune trees is when the knife is sharp. Regarding No. 7, that the months of June, July, August and September are the months to get best results from white washes, as this is the time when adult insects are having eggs for future generations. No injurious effects are on record of injury to mature wood or bark by white washes properly prepared and applied. Pruning may be performed either with a saw or with a knife depending upon the size of branches to be removed. The cut should be made as close to the trunk as possible, and painted with lead paint. Never leave stumps or stubs to rot. The cuts on large branches should be made in such a way that the tree will heal over such wounds. White washes made close to the trunk will keep insects and animals off the tree. Cuts made during the growing season and painted with lead paint will keep insects and animals off the tree. The best remedy for most pruning is done in winter. The risk of other work is not so great and the operation is decided more readily. White washes should be removed during the winter.
